CULTURE

HYDROGEN JUKEBOX

The UW Vocal Theatre Workshop presents the Northwest premiere of Hydrogen Jukebox, composed by Philip Glass. A modern classic, this work of music-theatre challenges artists and audiences alike to examine both the potential and failings of the American Experience and to explore ever-relevant themes of war and peace, social equity, and environmental and economic sustainability.

2018 - 2019

ECOLOGY

A photograph of three students, two boys and one girl, standing in front of a green wall. They are holding small potted plants. The background is a wall covered in various green plants, including ferns and succulents. The lighting is bright, suggesting an outdoor setting.

GOULD HALL GREEN WALL

A student-led design-build project, transforming a blank facade into a showcase green wall fostering native plants, and innovative rainwater harvesting methods.

2010 - 2012

Addressing intersectionality in sustainability.

What is it and how do we incorporate it into the values of the CSF?

First coined by Kimberlé William Crenshaw ”Intersectionality is a lens through which you can see where power comes and collides, where it interlocks and intersects. It’s not simply that there’s a race problem here, a gender problem here, and a class or LGBTQ problem there”
